Portraits of Emotions

Portraits of emotions is a series of drawings and features local people from the LS7 area in Leeds, who were asked by the artist to pose with an emotion they most wanted to express. Inspired by Charles Darwin's Expressions of Emotions in Man and Animals; a book that traced the animal origins of human characteristics through facial expressions.

Objects and Arrangements

Current photographic work draws upon the experience of bereavement and loss of significant women in her family and subsequent material inheritance. Joanna uses the genre of still life to work with a number of family artefacts, objects and photographs, to explore the potential of things to communicate about public and private selves.
